

Figure 44. Isolated Sambucus racemosa var. microbotrys clump in a pasture bordering Paynes Creek, elevation ~1875 ft., Tehama Co. (Site #67).

Figure 45. Fencerow Sambucus mexicana with cemetery on the left and plowed field on the right, elevation ~135 ft., near the Mokelumne River north of Clements, San Joaquin Co. (Site #72); a female VELB was captured on this clump on 15 May 1991.

Figure 46. Sambucus mexicana in an oak-woodland habitat, elevation ~780 ft.; the plants were growing in a damp roadside ditch at the Peninsula Campground entrance, Folsom Lake State Recreation Area, El Dorado Co. (Site #99).

Figure 47. Sambucus mexicana in a mixed chaparral-foothill woodland habitat, elevation ~520 ft., Cache Creek Canyon, Yolo Co. (Site #75); plant associates included toyon, manzanita, redbud, digger pine, and big-leaf maple.

Figure 48. Sambucus racemosa var. microbotrys growing amid boulders on a rocky hill, elevation ~410 ft., near Miners Ravine west of Folsom Lake, Placer Co. (Site #21).

Figure 49. Dense Sambucus grove in a dry, incised streambed southwest of Caliente, Kern Co., elevation ~1360 ft. (Site #6).